DEBATING ON THE CANAL

Mr. Turpie Continues His Fierce Attacks Upon the Measure.

HOUSE TALKS ON CURRENCY

Carlisle Bill Is Denounced Because of the Indecent Haste Exhibited in Presenting It-The Silvery Ring of Mr. Bland's Voice Is Heard.

Some of his strictures and censures on the bill were resented by Mr. Morgan, who is in charge of it-but this did not restrain the Indiana senator tons, a decrease of 86,987 tons from las from declaring, in his picturesque and year. vehement language, that there was no certainty, and no provision for a certainty, that it ever would be finished. The resolution went over, Mr. Allen stating that he would address the senate upon it after the holiday recess.

House Talking Currency.

The speakers in the second day's discussion of the currency bill in the house were Messrs. Johnson, (Rep., Ind.), Warner, (Dem., N. Y.), and Ellis, (Dem., Ky.), all members of the committee on banking and currency. Mr. Warner advocated the passage of the bill because of the proposed rehabilitation of state banks and because of the fact that it took the government out of the business of issuing a currency.

Mr. Johnson opposed it because he believed it vicious and because of the indecent haste that was exhibited in presenting it to the house. Mr. Ellis' opposition was largely based upon the fact that the bill provided for a reorganization and extension of the national banking system, when every state and national convention of the Democratic party for years had de-clared against it, and this at a time when the necessity for their services as fiscal agents, if it ever existed, had that Calvin Pardee should take th been absolutely passed.

Mr. Bland gave notice that he would move to amend by substituting for the and is so busy that an additional r bill his free colnage of silver and coin note scheme. At 2 o'clock the debate on the currency bill will be suspended and the ceremonles of unveiling the statues of Webster and Stark, presented by the state of New Hampshire, entered upon.
